

Oswaldo Lapuente

National Coordinator in Guatemala

Oswaldo Lapuente is the National Coordinator of Cristosal in Guatemala, an organization that promotes human rights in Central America. He is a lawyer and notary (graduated with honors from UNLP/Argentina), and has also completed studies in international relations and a master's degree in public policy at the URL/Guatemala (OAS scholarship). He also held an internship at the FIIAPP in Spain.

He is a former member of the Institute of International Relations -IRI- at the UNLP, the Center for Argentine-Canadian Studies -CEAC- and the Institute of International Law, La Plata Bar Association.

With extensive experience working on social issues, he became a United Nations officer in 2003 where he served in several relevant positions. He was an international consultant for the OAS, SICA, AECID, USAID, other institutions, universities, and foundations.

He is author, co-author, and collaborator on more than 15 public policies in Central America. A former university professor in several countries of Latin America, he has published several papers in his area of expertise.